A JOINT COMMITTEE.

The advisability and practicability of consolidating into one institution the school of mines department of the Governor Wells said it could be seen at a glance that if both requests for appropriations were granted that there would be two schools of mines in the state that it is imposing an unnecessary burden upon the taxpayers to maintain similar institutions, whereas, if the boards of both schools could agree upon some plan whereby there is to be but one school of mines in Utah, it could be maintained at a much less cost to the taxpayers than two; that the one could thereby be made a more thorough institution than if both schools had one, providing the legislature granted the request of the Agricultural college.

After the matter had been debated for about two hours, it was finally agreed that all immediate consideration should be left to a joint committee. This committee is to consist of three members of the board of each institution, exclusive of the presidents of the schools, who are made members ex-officio.

It is the duty of the joint committee to decide upon some plan whereby there is to be but one school of mines, and then draft a bill to that effect, which shall later be referred to the legislature for enactment, Before the bill is sent to the solons, if an agreement can be reached, it is to be submitted for the approval of the governor and the boards of thetw o institutions, which shall meet conjointly. Immediately after the meeting the university board met in the governor's private office and elected the following committee: Professor James Clark, chairman: Professor A. H. Lund, Professor Frank Pierce and Dr. J. T. Kingsbury, president of the university. committee: Professor James Clark, chairman; Professor A. H. Lund, Professor Frank Pierce and Dr. J. T. Kingsbury, president of the university.

The board of directors of the Agricultural college has not yet named its committee. The two committees will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Governor Wells' office.

Sheriffs and County Clerks On the Lookout For Alleged Runaways.

The sheriff and county clerk in every county throughout the state are looking for Oscar Barton, formerly of Kaysville, who, up to the time of disappearance worked in Tintic, and a young woman, supposed to be in his company. The sheriffs are requested to arrest the young man. On what charge is not known. The clerks and their deputies have been requested not to issue a license to the couple should they make application for one, and to detain them, if possible, until an ar-resting officer can be summoned.

Sheriff Cronan of Juab notified the sheriff at Provo who, in turn, yesterday afternoon telephoned to Sheriff Emery. For reasons best known to the officers, they refuse to disclose the name of the woman supposed to be with Barton, and why they want him.

The governor explained that in its biennial report the board of the Agricultural college asked for a large sum of money with which to install a school of mines.

This improvement would keep the lake always above the compromise level and insure the farmers an unfalling supply of water, and the city could then easily make arrangements for the entire supply from the Cottonwood streams. At present the farmers get a share of this water. The quarrels over water privileges are renewed every year, and during the dry periods neither has a full supply. It is to settle these differences and insure an unfailing supply for both sides that public spirit is being directed to secure the aid of the government for storing the waters which annually run to waste instead of being imprisoned in reservoirs for use when needed most.

Other Schemes Suggested.

There are other propositions for securing government aid for Utah, but Salt Lake would be only an indirect beneficiary. In fact, there is a serious doubt whether the government would look with favor on the other schemes. There is some doubt whether anything can be done with a merger representing only three of the irrigating canal companies, but these companies represent a majority of the water interests. Mr. Richards said yesterday:

Many of the legislators had never before visited Salt Lake, and they were especially interested in their trip.

"While we think there is no place like Idaho," remarked Senator Crum, "and we think we have some of the finest cities in the country within our borders, we all look upon Salt Lake as being closely identified with our interests and almost an Idaho city. For this reason I was especially anxious to come down here for a day. I must say that I was not disappointed, quite the contrary.

In all the cases its form is mild, and unless complications set in no fatalities are anticitions set in, no fatalities are anticipated. The afflicted ones are quarantined in their own homes. The only serious objection which has as yet been raised to the Martin resolution is the sick benefit provision. It is argued by those who do not like it that it should be stricken out entirely. They argue that sick benefits can be secured nowadays from so many companies, and at a very low rate, that it is not advisable to incorporate such a provision in the proposed articles of incorporation. They contend for a union solely for indigent pedagogues.

For the week ending Jan. 24 there were eighteen births reported to the board of health, eleven of the number being males and seven females. For the same period there were thirteen deaths reported, as compared with eighteen for the same week of last year: eight of the decedents were males and five were females. SAVED SISTER'S HOUSE.

Master Penrose's Hands Were Severely Burned Fighting Fire.

Master Leo Penrose, a young brothe of Mrs. John Stringham, made himself a hero a few days ago by an exhibition of coolness and skill in fire fighting that probably saved his sister's residence from being destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stringham were away from home and their 4-year-old boy got hold of some matches. He found a candle then, and, yielding to the usual tendencies of children to play with fire, he lighted it. Into the clothes closet he went and put the candle down on the floor. The candle was overturned afterwards and set fire to some clothes that were hanging in the of Mrs. John Stringham, made himsel overturned afterwards and set fire to some clothes that were hanging in the closet. The children were in another room and did not notice the fire until Master Penrose smelled something burning and began an investigation.

When he got to the closet smoke was pouring from it and the flames were beginning to leap up towards the ceiling. With a promptness that some older persons do not possess, the boy seized the burning clothing and thew it into a bath tub. Jumping upon it, he stamped it until the fire was out.

The boy's hands were quite severely burned by the flames but no serious injuries were sustained. As a result of the boy's action the damage was confined to the loss of some wearing apparel and a slight scorching of the woodwork in the closet.

HEILVIEN "THE PAIN KING."

No one who has ever felt the keen, cutting pains of Rheumatism will question its right to be called "The King of Pain." It inflicts the most excrutiating suffering upon its victims. Every muscle, joint, membrane and nerve in the body becomes saturated with these dangerous poisons and coated with fine particles of insoluble caustic matter, and the deep piercing pains that only Rheumatism can inflict are felt with every effert of the blood to force its way through the sore and tender parts. The longer the blood remains impure the greater will be your suffering and your chances of a cure are lessened with every day's delay. There is no other way of escape from the clutches of "The Pain King" except through the purification of the blood and removal of all obstructions to a full and free circulation.

When the whole volume of blood is poisoned and the disease is running riot in your system you cannot expect permanent relief from liniments and plasters, or blistering and rubbing. Such treatment gives temporary relief, but in order to conquer "The Pain King" and bring about a complete cure, the Uric Acid poison and other inflammatory matter must be expelled, and you can't do this with external remedies. S. S. neutralizes the acids, dissolves the hard, gritty particles that have accumulated in the muscles and joints, and
